4C's

There are four core components your lender will use to determine if they will be able to approve your loan.

Capacity

The lender will review your income, employment history, debt payments, and other obligations to ensure you have the means to afford a mortgage.

Credit

The lender will check your credit score and history to assess your record of paying your debts in a timely manner.

Capital

The lender will assess your liquid assets to ensure you have adequate funds for down payment, closing costs, and reserves.

Collateral

The lender will consider the value of the property you're pledging as security for the loan

MORTGAGE

Build your savings. The cost of ownership isn't just your down payment, closing costs, and monthly payment; It's also maintenance and repairs.

Check your credit, and know where you stand. Work to reduce credit card balances, make all debt payments on time, and clean up any blemishes

Get a pre-approval letter from your Loan Officer before searching for a home. Work with your Loan Officer to ensure you're searching within your budget and price range.

Sit tight! Don't make any financial changes that would impact your loan. Don't change jobs, make big purchases, or co-sign for anyone's debts.
